

COASTAL HOME

where style meets seacoast living

Zen

ON THE BEACH

A Serene Sanctuary Showcases a Treasured Art Collection

GROWING UP

Living Walls Bring Nature to New Heights

KITCHENS AL FRESCO

Outdoor Entertaining Makes Vacationing at Home a Luxury

COASTALHG.COM

ADVERTISERS RESOURCE DIRECTORY IN PRINT & ONLINE!

List your company in our Advertisers' Resource Directory, categorized for fast, convenient reference.

Only $295 for one year in Coastal Home magazine and at www.coastalhg.com

Complimentary listing for any ad running in Coastal Home magazine.

Contact Keith Lemerise for details and to reserve your space in our Fall issue.

keith@trendsmarketing.com 603.766.1948 603.234.0394

The Art of Living by Claudia Steinberg (The Monacelli Press, November, 2009)

Art does not exist just to be looked at—it exists to be experienced. The Art of Living, by Claudia Steinberg, with over 200 lavish images by photographer Barbel Miebach, proves just that.

The dwellings of 25 art-world luminaries are featured in this stunning volume, each home demonstrating how art can be seamlessly integrated into the design of unique spaces reflective of the owners' personalities. The book is a visual treat, serving as inspiration rather than a "how-to" guide. It also offers a fascinating peek into the lives of some of the world's most well-known artists, gallerists, collectors, designers and others, such as Ellsworth Kelly, Catherine Malandrino and Vivienne Tam. The Art of Living is an examination of how they use their homes as canvasses, ultimate expressions of their own creativity and appreciation of art in general.

This is the book's greatest takeaway: even if we cannot emulate the fantastic spaces featured within, we can realize that living passionately and surrounding ourselves with spaces and objects that inspire us can have breathtaking results, both aesthetically and emotionally.

Reviewed by Jamie Thompson

Reason #146

to buy a Portsmouth A La Carte gift card . . .

. . . six dozen dining, shopping, and entertainment excuses to get out of the house.

Just one reason to have a stack of A La Carte cards in your "catch all" kitchen drawer. Good at over 65 restaurants, shops, theaters and home decor retailers.
Get cards at portsmouthalacarte.com, RiverRun Bookstore, Maine-ly New Hampshire, and the Portsmouth Brewery Store. Get out of the house and play!

New Classic American Houses:
The Architecture of Albert, Righter & Tittmann by Dan Cooper (The Vendome Press, October, 2009)

New Classic American Houses, written by design expert Dan Cooper, features the work of Albert, Righter and Tittmann, an architectural firm whose name is as synonymous with Boston as Faneuil Hall. The book changes the very idea of classic homes. With every turn of the page, it becomes more evident that Albert, Righter and Tittmann have reinvented New England design as we know it.

Readers embarking on a renovation or new build will appreciate the book's structure. Its chapters are organized by living space, beginning with a chapter on exteriors, and proceeding through the homes' interiors, starting with entrance halls, moving into living areas, and eventually ending with spacious kitchens and cozy libraries.

The homes featured in the compilation span all of New England. A journey through the book is akin to a Sunday afternoon drive, during which viewing the homes photographed in lush color throughout its 223 pages conjures up the smell of fresh cut grass and the fragrance of meadows.
Reading New Classic American Houses, which depicts the firm's whimsical and often playful reinvention of New England, is a welcome journey.

Reviewed by Sabrina Velandry